

SYNOPSIS

We are Datence Technologies building a DIY (Do It Yourself) Legal Compliance Toolkit called ABYD specifically for start-ups founders. This toolkit will assist in end-to-end legal compliance by providing access to all relevant laws, regulations, industry best practices, documents, and certifications necessary for start-ups. Our goal is to become the go-to legal compliance consultant for founders at all stages, transforming day-to-day legal compliance from a burden into a competitive advantage.

Start-up founders often face complex legal challenges, whether dealing with third parties, managing internal workplace issues, outsourcing development, or adding new features to their products. Our DIY Legal Compliance Toolkit allows founders to manage compliance independently, at their own pace, and without the need for expensive legal services. Users simply answer a few questions about their start-up and industry to receive a compliance report. This report includes a step-by-step guide covering general legal compliance, IPR protection, privacy regulations, responsible AI use, and a Document Builder for creating and enforcing necessary documents.

Our platform operates on a subscription-based model, providing founders with ongoing legal updates, guidance to avoid penalties, and a Document Builder to help enforce required clauses. This model ensures affordability and scalability, allowing users to manage compliance efficiently without costly legal assistance.

Our solution is the world's first legal tech platform designed specifically for founders without a legal background. By leveraging AI/ML-powered compliance, we ensure accuracy without the risks associated with generative AI. Each user's journey is personalized based on their inputs, offering a customized experience from initial registration to scaling past key milestones.

Our go-to-market strategy includes partnerships with key associations to sponsor events, boosting brand visibility among start-up founders. We will also launch targeted initiatives in cities across India, such as Mohali, Jaipur, Hyderabad, and Noida, to provide direct support to incubated start-ups. This approach will amplify awareness and build trust by offering hands-on legal compliance assistance.

We project reaching ₹50 CR in Annual Recurring Revenue (ARR) within the next 24 months, starting from a pre-revenue stage. In the first year, our focus will be on user acquisition and early monetization, targeting 30% of the ARR. By the second year, scaling efforts and refining product-market fit will drive the remaining 70% of the projected ARR.

Investing ₹1.5 CR for 9% equity provides early access to a ground-breaking legal tech platform with high growth potential. This funding will accelerate market entry and scale operations, offering investors significant returns as we aim for ₹50 CR ARR.
