Key Challenges and Our Proposition:

02

Widespread Consumption of Maida-based Products

Indian consumers heavily rely on low-nutrition Maida-based products, contributing to health issues like obesity.

Lack of Protein-rich, Nutrient-dense Alternatives

There is a lack of accessible, high-protein, and fiber-rich food alternatives in the market.

Growing Demand for Healthier Food Options

Consumers are increasingly looking for healthier, nutrient-packed options to fit into their daily meals.

Low Nutritional Density in Traditional Pasta

Traditional pastas and convenience foods don't meet modern dietary needs for protein and fiber.

Introduction of Protein-rich, Fiber-packed Foods

TreeVeda Foods offers healthier, protein-rich pastas like Multi Millet and Quinoa variants with 13g – 16g of protein and 8g of fiber.

High-Protein Variants for Enhanced Nutrition

Our high-protein pasta variants (22-27g protein, 13g fiber) provide a nutritional boost equivalent to a scoop of whey protein.

Replacement of Maida with Semolina and Other Nutrient-rich Grains

We replace Maida with nutrient-dense ingredients like durum wheat semolina and millet for better health benefits.

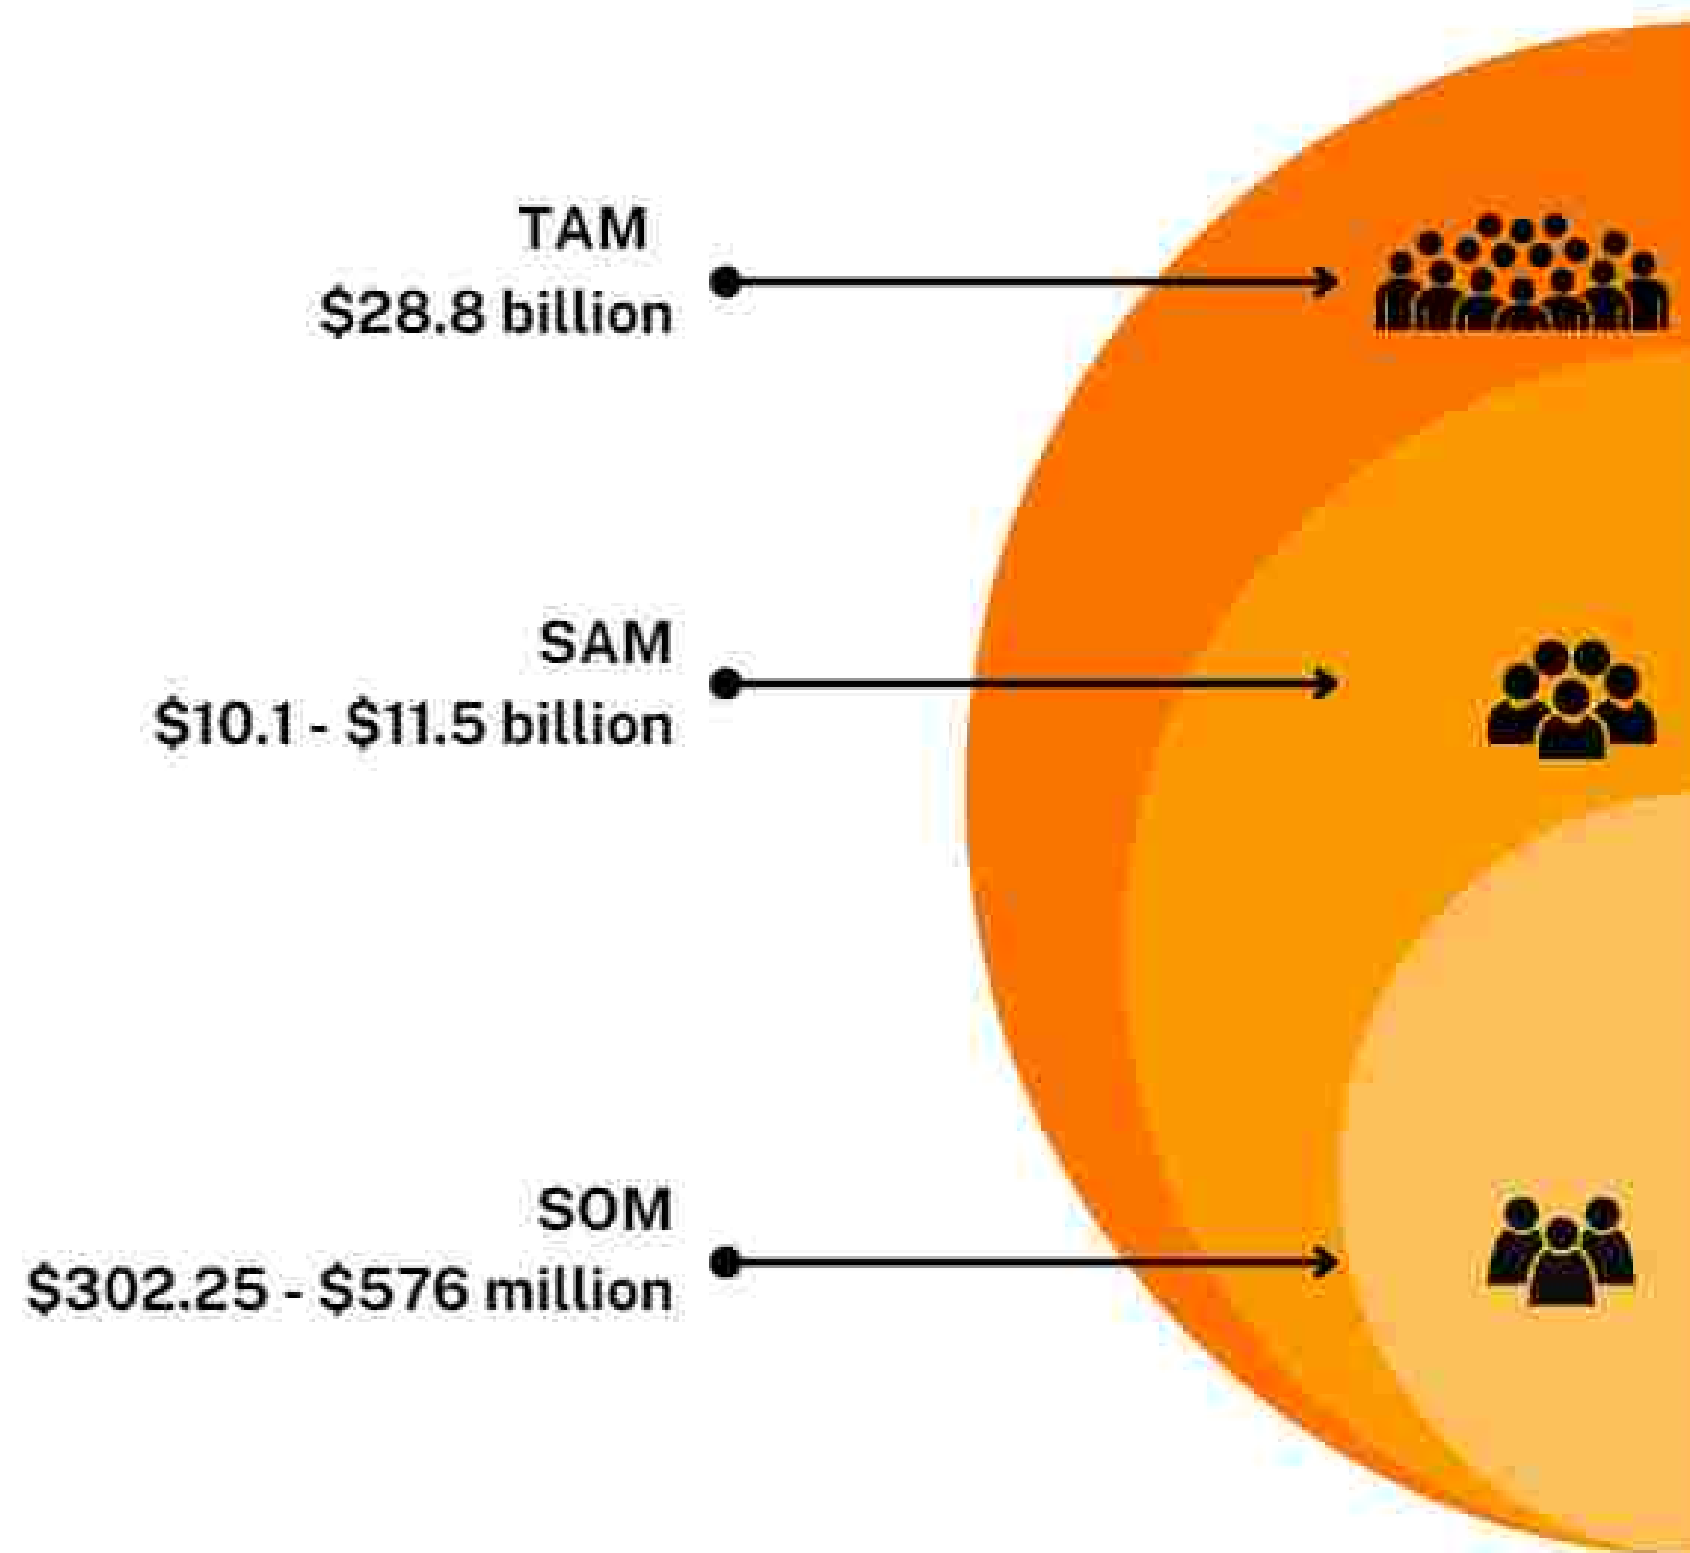

Catering to Health-conscious Consumers

TreeVeda caters to health-conscious consumers seeking tasty, protein-packed alternatives to conventional foods.

Market Size:

04

India's health and wellness food market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 20% over the next five years, reaching an estimated value of $30 billion by 2026 (1)

TreeVeda focuses on the plant-based protein and millet-based foods sector, which represents a subset of the larger market. The SAM for this category is estimated to be around $8-10 billion in India by 2026, driven by increasing consumer demand for healthy alternatives to traditional processed foods (2)

The combined SOM for TreeVeda's market segments would be around $1-2 Billion.
