Problem Definition

1. Car wash Industry in India is primarily unorganized, number of car owners has increased dramatically in last few years but number of car wash facilities lacks behind in accordance.
2. Cost of real estate ownership and rental is very high in Tier-1,2,3 cities in India, making it next to impossible for car wash facilities to provide economical service and generate profit at same time.
3. Water scarcity in India is increasing year by year, some cities including Bengaluru, Delhi, Chennai, Indore, Jaipur, Nashik, Thane, Mumbai are struggling hard to meet water demand.
4. Waiting time at car wash stations is very high, our market survey concluded that people spend more than 3 hours on a car wash station which includes waiting time, washing time and interior vacuuming time (Sunday's are more busier). People want to get their cars washed and cleaned but avoiding it because of time involved in process.

Market Size

Roughly there are more than 10 crore personal cars on Indian roads. More than 20 lac new cars are sold every month on average.

Currently car wash market of India is approximately 7000 crores (not including other car care services like detailing) and is projected to be doubled by 2030.

Genie Waterless Carwash

Primary Product: We use approximately 1 liter water per car wash leaving no water on ground. Our product is result of intensive research of about 2 years, almost all international and Indian local waterless car wash products were analyzed during the development of our product. Till date we have the best product among all the products available in Indian market to be used on commercial scale considering cost and quality. We are pledged towards continuous research and development to keep our product as top performer.

Secondary Products: We have procured superior products such as tire polish, windshield and glass cleaner, micro-fiber towels, car trim-restorer from Indian as well as International market along with agreement from suppliers for supply in any quantity.

SOP: We have designed our SOP for easy and quick learning for workers/operators and perform the procedure in efficient manner. It is very possible to completely train a new hire in 3 days.

Public Response

We started running test market 3 months ago in one busy market parking lot of SAS Nagar (Mohali) Punjab.

Response we are getting exceeded our expectation, more than 90% customers are completely satisfied and referring our service to their friends and family, we have good ratio of repeat clientele.

We are getting huge appreciation by public who stop by when see service being performed on somebody else's car, and leave with a note that they will try our service next time when they need a car wash.

Upon interaction customers appreciate the convenience of getting car washed and cleaned while shopping/eating/meeting with a friend.

People are asking us to start service in other areas, for doorstep service as well (to which they are ready to pay premium on top).

We are getting a good number of business enquiries about franchise in other areas of Chandigarh Tri-city, in other cities of India, and other countries as well.

(The purpose behind running this test market was to test the waters by checking the real-life challenges to our service, but the way market responded we will continue to operate it for training purpose for our franchisee's)

Marketing Strategy

We haven't spent any money on social media marketing yet (which is most effective way of marketing for this kind of service). But the team has been hired and very soon the social media marketing will be in effect.

Very strong off-line marketing is being planned in which number of other businesses will be advertising and supporting our business in return of increased footfall for their own business.

Podcast with local influencers and industry specific influencers is being arranged.

Promotion in big corporate office buildings through management offering corporate discount (Discussion with HDFC head office in IT city SAS Nagar has been initialized).

Freebies such as hanging car perfume, fancy key rings, mini garbage bin for car etcetera with Genie branding will be offered to first time customers.

Discussion with a few car care and detailing studios has been conducted briefly, who are agreeing on supporting each others business as we are not competition to each other (we are trying to contact franchise chains with more than 100 outlets such as detailing mafia, carzspa, detailing street for sort of collective support).

Competition

Based on research and survey on ground level, we didn't see any active competition to our business model. Explanation on passive competition is as below:

1. Daily car washing guys: Cheap in price but very unorganized, a lot of customer complained that guys do not show up for couple of weeks sometimes backed by lame excuses, one bucket of water (gets dirty after 2-3 cars) and single piece of cloth is used for upto 30 cars, cleaning is not detailed at all and majority of customers reported deep scratches on their paint on their less than year old car. May a few guys are doing this job properly but majority of them are damaging the car's surface, many customers still opting their service as they have no other choice.
2. Conventional car wash stations: Very inconvenient as the waiting times are very high specially on weekends, no sitting area, heavy use of cheap silicon product line damaging car paint and interiors in long run, usage of dirty cloth/rags repeatedly all day, customers with ceramic coatings and PPF (paint protection film) on their cars complaining about hard water marks left on surface deteriorating shine of their car.

3. Car detailing studios: Good quality and high-end products along with fancy waiting area. But too time consuming and too expensive. Customers reported that they like the service but do not like the hefty bill resulted due to unnecessary upselling by creating panic, so people like to visit such facilities once in a while only.
4. Doorstep Service companies: As of the moment most players in doorstep service are using customer's water and electricity, leaving behind mess on floor. People like the service but it cannot be availed at many places such as premium apartment complexes (restriction on water use in parking lot), public markets, office building parkings. A company named HOORA is performing well in this segment but again the price is on higher side and service is inconsistent and requires water from customer (not feasible in high rise complexes).
5. Waterless Doorstep Services: We have tried all the such services available in tri-city market. Some are expensive, almost none has a good quality waterless product (cheapest quality product being used), no SOP exist. There is a company with more than 180 franchises in India but the company founders are focused on pushing their average performing product in retail market instead of focusing on making existing franchises perform, franchise owners are frustrated due to lack of support from back end, we analyzed the equipment being provided to franchises which is very basic and inefficient.

Franchise Model

Currently we are operating in COCO model and profitable from day one, expansion plans are towards COFO and FOFO model.

Franchise will be provided at starting price of 3 lacs (lowest in industry) which may will include 3 months product inventory and a year inventory of consumables (price will vary in accordance to number of workers and model of franchise).

We have different fits for different regions and cities, our aim is to make our franchisee successful by getting ROI in 6 months which will fire up expansion of the company.

There is a criteria for selection of candidates for franchisee, franchisee owners can work part or full time but need to go through the selection process. Research team will be employed and comprehensive training will be provided before allotment of franchise.

Our Team

Our vibrant team have founders from Canada with experience of over a decade in various fields of business, working on this venture full-time.

Our social media marketing team consists of youngsters who have worked on several projects and start-ups in past.

Our marketing director is well experienced in high cost franchise sales, joined Genie as part timer for now and looking to work for Genie full-time when needed.

Our training team consists of car-care enthusiasts, and have a deep knowledge of car care services and products.

Why invest in GENIE?

We are working in an industry which is on rise and will boom very soon, a lot of new players will enter at that time, due to lack of competition and unorganized segment, we have an assured chance to be successful and acquire a good portion of market.

We aim to grow 10 times year after year for next 5 years.

In this presentation everything is explained briefly, we will be more than happy to discuss more details with a potential investor.

Thank You
